Today, one third of the world’s population lacks access to life-saving medicine. It is often too expensive or no longer produced because the world’s poorest are not seen as lucrative customers by pharmaceutical corporations. This evening, activists will discuss the cause of this injustice and what can be done to change it.

Katy Athersuch
Medical innovation & Access policy advisor, MSF Access Campaign

Andrea Isenegger
Pharmacist MPH, MSF Switzerland

Andrea Mauracher
Founder of Universities Allied for Essential Medicines CH